A diagram illustrating four types of passive electronic components. Each component is shown in its physical form, its circuit symbol, and its name. From left to right: 1. Resistor: Two physical resistors (one tan, one blue) are shown above a circuit symbol of a rectangle with a diagonal line and a zigzag line. Below is the word "Resistor" in blue. 2. Capacitor: Three physical capacitors (two electrolytic, one ceramic) are shown above a circuit symbol of two parallel lines. Below is the word "Capacitor" in red. 3. Sensor: A physical sensor module with a metal mesh is shown above a circuit symbol of a square with three curved lines. Below is the word "Sensor" in red. 4. Inductor: A physical copper wire coil is shown above a circuit symbol of a rectangle with a zigzag line. Below is the word "Inductor" in green. At the bottom center of the diagram is a dark blue box with the text "Passive Electronic Components" in white. At the bottom left is a green box with the text "Electronics and You" in black.
